SHORT COURSE TIMETABLE

Course Title  Curating Contemporary Art
Tutor  Sophia Kosmaoglou
Dates of Course  Sample Schedule Summer School 2018

Course Description
We'll get this five-day course off to a start by giving you an overview of the history of curating and 21st century curatorial developments. We will survey the main trends, institutions and concerns of contemporary curatorial practices. We will visit exhibitions in London, from DIY project spaces to established museums. The course will also provide you with important practical information about funding, promotion, installation and other professional aspects of curating. Then we'll move you on to building your practical skills by encouraging you to devise exhibition themes and proposals. As you prepare your final presentation, you'll consider everything from funding to PR. Don't miss your chance to gain valuable and practical insights into curating contemporary art in both gallery and alternative spaces. Please note that you'll be expected to complete reading and research in your own time during the course.

Course Outcomes
You will gain vital understanding of professional standards of practice in curating, knowledge of structures and institutions of the art world in London and beyond and have the tools to write an exhibition proposal, organise a show and apply for funding. It could mean moving on to curatorial projects, assistantships, partnerships or internships in the future.

Who Should Attend
Anyone with an interest in curating exhibitions of contemporary art. You may be looking to make proposals to venues, apply for gallery internships, follow a career in arts administration or apply for a BA or MA degree in Curating. The course could also provide anyone with a non-professional interest in contemporary art with new insights into the structures and concepts that underpin the field.
